

Module 5

Objection Handling

The seven full objection scripts — price, need-to-think, existing designer, no showroom, never heard of you, natural stone, and weight/brittleness.

Topics: objection-price · objection-trust · objection-technical

Objection Handling

“That’s too expensive.”

SCRIPT (VERBATIM)

Compressed wood costs under Rs. 100 per square foot, while our SilverStone costs around Rs. 500 per square foot just for the material. Wood kitchens face termites, water damage, fungus, and release formaldehyde — repairs, pest treatment, often full replacement within 5 to 7 years. Our stone kitchens stay as good as new for decades. When you add up the lifetime cost, Magppie often works out to be the smarter investment. Plus a 25-year guarantee and 25 annual services.

“I need to think about it / discuss with family.”

Never push. Offer materials that sell in your absence: a short SilverStone video + customer installation photos on WhatsApp, a quick expert video call, or a sample sent to their home. End with a choice: "Which would work better for you?"

“I already have a vendor / interior designer.”

Welcome it: we regularly collaborate with architects and designers — technical drawings, 3D renders, seamless coordination. Many designers recommend us because SilverStone adds value to their projects. Offer to connect with the designer directly.

“How do I trust you without a showroom in my city?”

Systems, accountability, proven performance: central manufacturing, in-house installation teams, written commitments, pan-India guarantees and AMS support — then offer sample delivery / video call / customer-site visit.

“I’ve never heard of Magppie.”

We are a premium brand — we don’t mass-market like carpentry shops. 50+ years group heritage; trusted by the Ambanis, M.S. Dhoni, Ranbir Kapoor; KBIS 2026 global innovation award. Offer the brochure + video.

“Why not natural stone (granite/marble)?” + weight & brittleness

- Natural stone: mining harms the environment (against the wellness philosophy); porous, harbours bacteria, needs polishing; quality varies. SilverStone: non-porous, antibacterial, zero maintenance, uniform, stronger than granite.
- Weight: denser than compressed wood, but the cabinet structure distributes the load — no flooring impact; smoother operation via patented hardware.
- Brittleness: stronger than granite; heavy-utensil and ceramic-jar drop tested — impact-safe.

SCOPE NOTE

This module covers the AI Bot doc’s objection scripts. The live "Sales Assist — Plays" database (30+ plays) is not yet accessible — this module expands when it is.

PART 2 · VIDEO NARRATION SCRIPT (ENGLISH)

The narration for this module's video — the same voiceover you hear on the module page.

An objection isn't a no. It's a request for a better answer.

Too expensive? Compare materials, then lifetimes. Compressed wood costs under a hundred rupees a square foot; SilverStone is around five hundred — for the material alone. Wood kitchens fight termites, water, and fungus, and often need replacing within five to seven years. Stone stays as good as new for decades. On lifetime cost, Magppie is usually the smarter investment — with a twenty-five-year guarantee and twenty-five annual services on top.

Need to think about it? Never push. Offer a short SilverStone video and installation photos on WhatsApp, a quick expert video call, or a sample sent home — and let them choose.

Already have a designer? Welcome it. We collaborate with designers constantly: technical drawings, 3D renders, seamless coordination.

No showroom in their city? Systems build trust: central manufacturing, trained in-house installers, written commitments, pan-India support — plus a sample, a call, or a site visit.

Never heard of Magppie? We're a premium brand — we don't mass-market. Fifty-plus years of heritage, trusted by the Ambanis, Dhoni, Ranbir Kapoor, and a global innovation award at KBIS twenty-twenty-six.

Why not granite or marble? Mining harms the environment, and natural stone is porous. Too heavy? The cabinet structure distributes the load. Brittle? Stronger than granite — the ceramic-jar drop test left it intact.
